

GIMBEL REILLY GUERIN & BROWN LLP
Milwaukee, Wisconsin

The attorneys at the law firm of Gimbel Reilly Guerin & Brown LLP are known in Milwaukee and throughout Wisconsin, not only as experienced trial and appellate lawyers in state and federal court, but also for their work in business and development law and transactions, real estate, zoning and condemnation, municipal licensing hearings, property tax assessment appeals, representing businesses, organizations and professionals before administrative agencies, and the defense of regulatory enforcement investigations.

Attorney Denis Regan represents buyers and sellers of commercial real estate, including those with environmental concerns, such as remediation, indemnification and assessment of environmental impact. Denis also regularly deals with lease negotiations, establishing corporate entities to minimize potential liability and working with state and local government with respect to regulatory matters affecting businesses and properties.

Attorney Josh Gimbel's practice focuses on commercial and corporate litigation, as well as land use and zoning, real estate and municipal law. He also represents developers, business owners and individuals in special and conditional use permit approvals, zoning changes and licenses.

Attorney Chris Hayden works closely with Denis and Josh in their areas of practice, and on real estate and business matters, zoning and municipal law. Additionally, Chris represents individuals and businesses throughout the state in litigation matters.

Attorneys Chris Strohbehn and Russ Karnes represent businesses and property owners around the state in civil litigation and property tax assessment reviews and appeals. They regularly consult with and represent business owners and large and small companies dealing with municipal entities in Milwaukee and statewide in licensing matters, and in defense of citations and violations alleged.

Attorneys Pat Knight and Kristen Nelson represent licensed professionals and health care providers facing federal and state investigation and prosecution, including professional licensing and discipline defense before regulatory agencies and boards. Attorneys Jason Luzcak and Ray Dall'Osto represent individuals, professionals and businesses in federal and state regulatory and criminal investigations, white collar criminal prosecutions and in professional licensing and discipline matters.
